

FEAST OF THE WEEK:

The Decollation (Beheading) of St John the Baptist, 29 August

From a sermon of the Venerable Bede

This blessed harbinger of the Lord's birth, teaching and death, displayed against his foes a valour worthy of heaven's regard. As the scripture tells us, 'Although he suffered torments in men's eyes, he has a sure hope of immortality.' Accordingly we celebrate the day of his birth with festive joy, for he made it sacred to us by his own suffering, made it resplendent with the brightness of his blood. Justly do we honour with spiritual joy the memory of the man who stamped with the seal of martyrdom the witness he gave on the Lord's behalf.

Without doubt blessed John the Baptist endured the chains of his prison and laid down his life in witness to our Redeemer, of whom he was the forerunner. His persecutor did not order him to deny Christ but to be silent about the truth. Nevertheless he died for Christ. For as Christ himself said, 'I am the truth', in shedding his blood for the truth he therefore certainly did so for Christ. By his birth before Christ, by his preaching and baptizing, he bore witness to him who was to be born, to preach and to baptize; so too he prefigured by his suffering the passion of Christ.

This great man, then, after the long agony of captivity, ended his life on earth with the shedding of his blood. He who preached the freedom of heavenly peace was thrown into chains by wicked men; he who came to bear witness to the light, who was deservedly called a burning and shining light by Christ the light itself, was imprisoned in darkness; he who was granted the privilege of baptizing the Redeemer of the world, of hearing the Father's voice above him, of seeing the grace of the Holy Spirit coming down upon him, was given baptism in his own blood.

But to such men the endurance of temporal torments for the truth was easy and desirable: they knew they would be rewarded with everlasting joys. Death being near and inevitable in the course of nature, the martyrs deemed it desirable to accept it for the profession of Christ's name, and gain the prize of everlasting life. And so the apostle well says: 'To you it has been granted by Christ not only to believe in him, but also to suffer for his sake.' It is a gift of Christ, he says, for the elect to suffer for him, because 'the sufferings of this life are not worthy to be compared with the glory to come that will be revealed in us.'

O God, who willed that Saint John the Baptist should go ahead of your Son both in his birth and in his death, grant that, as he died a Martyr for truth and justice, we, too, may fight hard for the confession of what you teach. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

WHY CATHOLICS LEAVE, WHAT THEY MISS AND HOW THEY MIGHT RETURN | You will remember in 2015, the diocese ran a campaign in connection with St Mary's University called 'Share Your Story'. We received 256 eligible responses, many very detailed, in fact, the data was so rich, that the final report will be produced as a book - which will be published by Paulist Press in 2018.
